Manager comments

February 2020 will be remembered by investors worldwide for a long time. The Seven European Equity fund posted a drop in its net asset value of -7.25% against a drop of -8.46% for our benchmark index, the EuroStoxx 50 Net Return .

This sharp fall in global equity markets was caused by a 7 letters word, COVID19. The exceptional measures taken by the Chinese government in Wuhan in mid-January were initially greeted with astonishment. As these spread to other Chinese cities and provinces, fear around the world began to spread. The tipping point in panic was reached on February 22, 2020 when Italy reported the first cases of contamination on its soil.

On Monday February 24, the EuroStoxx 50 Net Return opened down -1% to end the day down -4.01%, followed an exceptional week for the world stock market indices, the EuroStoxx 50 Net Return closing the week on a total decline of -12.39%.

The outperformance of our European equity fund in February is mainly due to our significant exposure to the Utilities sector, 21.90% as of February 28, 2020.

This defensive sector, posted a moderate decline of -2.96% (SX6P Index) over the month and over the last week of February lost -9.98% against -12.39% for our benchmark index.

Note the very low exposure of the fund to the Travel & Leisure sector, 0.7% as of February 28, Ryanair being our only holding in this sector. In February the European Travel & Leisure Index (SXTP Index) fell by -12.76%.

At the micro level, we should emphasize the good performance of ASM International NV and Ingenico Group shares, the latter benefiting from a favorable newsflow allowing them to post strong resistance in February (ASM International NV: better than expected results published mid- January // Ingenico Group: takeover offer of the group by Worldline announced on February 03, 2020).
